THE STORY OF JR NEIGHBORS

On July 29, 1904, famed temperance movement leader Carrie Nation entered the local Neighbors Saloon yielding her signature hatchet with plans to chop up the bar and bar stools, all while preaching the dangers of alcohol and "dirty businesses!" J.R. Neighbors, the saloon keeper, took matters into his own hands. He hit Mrs. Nation twice with a bar stool on the city street outside the saloon. Mrs. Nation was injured and attended to by area physicians. Neighbors' stand against temperance and for freedom resulted in a $15 fine.
